If you are a minority, American Indian, Asian, Latino, bowler, water skier, golfer or raise cows or horses, this book is a gold mine for you. If you are an average, middle income caucasian that lives in Ohio, there is very little for you in this book. I also found that a lot of the links did not work, and many scholarships expire in the first couple months of the year. I think you need to buy the book for 2017 in November of 2016 if it is available. I was pretty disappointed.

Many special interest scholarships listed that aren't appropriate for 95% of the general public. Good for leads to websites where you can gather additional information. Don't expect it to be a one size fits all - it's just a resource.

Outdated many of the scholarships included in the book are two to three years old and no longer exist.

Not as helpful as I had hoped. Although we did find 4 scholarships to apply for, I had hoped for more. I can see how this may help others- especially minorities, athletes and moms. If you aren't any of those, best to peruse this book at the library.

Really helpful book. Really prepares me for scholarships. Prepare to use a highlighter, post bookmarks, and a calendar. This book is huge. Goodluck.

I just finished reading through the entire book and created an excel sheet with the scholarships that I can apply for. Took about 8 hours. It adds up to $200,000 in opportunity. My only complaint would be that they alphabetized all the scholarships when in reality it would be much better for some areas to be categorized. Especially the region area. I thought maybe their numbering system wasn't set up for it but it turns out the code for each scholarship starts with the state followed by the number and ending with the year. Hopefully this is resolved in the future. Other than that a good book to buy for anyone starting the search for scholarships.

Wasn't incredibly useful, unfortunately. I will say that the scholarships included are accurate and accessible 8-9 out of 10 times. Plenty of scholarships listed, but very few that I qualified for despite having a high GPA. The scholarships can be VERY specific. Another downside was that it listed many "contest"-like awards. IE, enter your information and get a chance to win XYZ amount of money.

HUNDREDS of pages of scholarships. Aprox. 4 - 6 scholarships per page. of course, there are minimum qualifications for most. Easy to apply for the scholarships online. Short essay required for most. I've applied for several but only received confirmation emails that I applied so far. Plenty more to apply for.
